Networking and Job Search "Joys & Concerns"

Join with other NCJS members and leaders for constructive networking, job search troubleshooting, sharing what's going well and what is not, and collaborating on job leads.

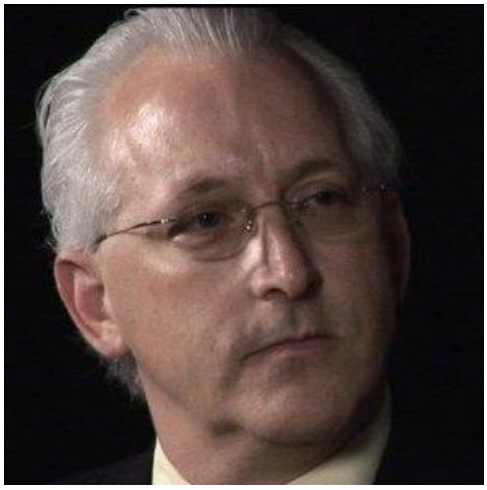
Continues on next page

Networking is part of "Job Search 101," yet many job seekers lack the actual network of "people with connections" during a time of job transition. Networking is one of the cornerstones of North Coast Job Seekers and we are very intentional about providing faceto-face time to explore connections, be introduced to new contacts, discover new opportunities, and share the people resources that YOU have to help another job seeker. Join with other NCJS members for this face-to-face time of constructive networking, job leads, and issue sharing.

PLAN AHEAD – FOLLOWING MEETING

NCJS Meeting – Monday, November 28, 2016

"How to Communicate Your Personal Value for Better Job Search Results" Speaker: Ron Finklestein



Ron Finklestein is called the "Real Deal" by his clients because of the results they achieve. Finklestein is the creator of the Business Growth Experience and owner of RPF GROUP INC. He is a Business Coach, International Author, Trainer, and Speaker. His eight business books include management and leadership, personal development, operations, marketing, and sales. His latest work: Make a Difference: From Success to Significance" was a 12-year study of 1000 successful small business owners and what they did to be successful.

In this presentation, job seekers will learn how to communicate their value to prospective employers and referral partners to achive faster results.

After a successful consulting career, Ron has spent the past 15 years building his business and helping entrepreneurs and business owners build their businesses. Ron has experience in working with businesses across a wide range of industries (Manufacturing, Banking, Government, Healthcare, Outsourced Services, Technology Industries, and Insurance) and helping companies grow the top line, allowing him to offer practical and proven ideas and strategies to improve most any business.

Ron knows and understands that all successful people exhibit nine behaviors, and he has built products to help implement these behaviors in businesses of all sizes. Because of the depth and breadth of Ron's experience, he can quickly and decisively see and identify business and personal challenges, identify innovative solutions and creates opportunities out of most any problem.

As a Certified Knowledge Manager and business consultant, Finklestein has both business and technology experience spanning more than two decades; he brings a blue-chip background from global companies such as Xerox, Unisys, GenCorp/Omnova, Xerox Connect and Wang. Between 1982 and 2001, Finklestein held various technical and executive positions including Divisional IT Manager, Financial Manager, Manager of Document Imaging and Workflow, and Sales.

Ron is an active member and participant in the NCJS LinkedIn Group and his LinkedIn profile can be found at Ron Finklestein.
