The Play Therapist in the Courtroom

When the Play Therapist becomes involved in the court system it can be a wonderful opportunity to advocate for your client but scary as hell if you don't know what you are doing. Reviewing legal requirements and legal issues that may arise during the course of play therapy will enable you to feel confident in your role in the courtroom.

This workshop will help you to navigate the legal system and become competent in testifying for your clients.

You will practice testimony skills for your Play Therapy client in mock scenarios.

Learning Objectives - Participants will:

- 1. Describe two ways to verify custody and consent for your Play Therapy client.
- 2. Identify who holds privilege for the child in Play Therapy.
- 3. Analyze situations where Play Therapy records are required to be released.
- 4. Explain minor consent and confidentiality in Play Therapy.
- 5. Recognize the roles of the court professionals who interact with your Play Therapy client.
- 6. Apply Mandatory reporting statutes that arise with Play Therapy clients.
- 7. Testify confidently in your role as the Play Therapist when in court.
- 8. Identify the paperwork that you need to prepare as a Play Therapist when you go to court.
- 9. Be able to prepare for a court involved Play Therapy case from onset to termination.
- 10. Utilize testimony skills to advocate and represent your Play Therapy client in the courtroom.
