Play Therapy Supervision 101

Play Therapy Supervision 101 is designed to equip participants with foundational knowledge and practical skills necessary for effective play therapy supervision. This course covers a comprehensive range of topics including models of play therapy supervision, ethical considerations, legal implications, logistical issues, evaluation methods for play therapists, and playful supervision techniques.

During this workshop, the learner will:

- 1: Identify and differentiate between 4 models of play therapy supervision and articulate their principles and applications in supervisory practice.
- 2: Analyze ethical guidelines and legal considerations specific to play therapy supervision, including issues of confidentiality, informed consent, professional boundaries, and mandated reporting.
- 3: Discuss logistical challenges and effective organizational structures for play therapy supervision, including documentation protocols, record-keeping procedures, and communication strategies within supervisory relationships.
- 4: Utilize criteria-based assessment tools to evaluate the supervisee's play therapy competencies and deliver constructive feedback.
- 5: Practice 4 playful supervision techniques to enhance reflective practice, self-awareness, and professional development.
- 6: Formulate a personalized approach to play therapy supervision, drawing upon theoretical knowledge, ethical principles, logistical considerations, and playful techniques.

Workshop Presenter:

Presenter(s) Experience/Training Related to Topic*

I am Licensed Professional Counselor (LPC), Registered Play Therapist Supervisor (RPT-S) and Approved Clinical Supervisor (ACS) with several group practices throughout Colorado. I work primarily with children ages 2-12 through play-focused EMDR, Animal Assisted Play Therapy and sand tray therapy. I live in Green Mountain Falls (north face of Pikes Peak!) and enjoy all things outdoors – skiing, hiking, biking, kayaking – and crafting!
