Advanced Sand Tray Therapy for Play Therapy

Advanced Sand tray delves into the depth therapy of dream work and the Jungian perspectives of the unconscious as depicted in the sand tray during play therapy sessions. The meaning of the Sand tray is as complex as the child or adult who creates it, as it embodies the body, spirit, emotions, and cognitions.

Participants will have the hands-on experience of constructing their own Sandtray world as well as aid others in having insight into their world. Working as a group, participants will dissect a video of a Sand tray, using metaphor and symbolic interpretation. This training will include lecture, videos, practice exercises as well as working in the sand tray.

Learning Objectives: Participants will:

1. Implement Kalff's 6 Sand Tray Principles into Play Therapy.
2. Apply John Allan's Jungian Theory to sand tray during Play Therapy.
3. Compare Perry's and Porges' neuro-developmental theories that inform Sand Tray.
4. Understand the 4 stages of Sand tray and be able to apply them during a Play Therapy session.
5. Be able to aid your clients in exploring the deeper meaning of their Sand tray during the post-creation phase during the Play Therapy Session.
6. Relate Jungian terms to Sand tray work during a Play Therapy session.

7. Be prepared to document a sand tray after the play therapy session.
