THE E. REED REPORT

Let's Stop Lying

“Action speaks louder than words”. When I was a child, this is something that we said to one another. Then I understood the meaning of these words in a limited capacity, today, I really understand them. Let me explain.

It's not what a person says with their mouths, it is what they do with their feet that matters. January 6, 2021, President Donald Trump stood behind a bullet proof glass, and spoke to a crowd of loyalist and edged them on to march to the Capitol Building with out fear and to be brave. We now know what that meant to them. It meant to storm and siege the Capitol Building( the seat of the American government) in the worst insurrection in American recorded history leaving five dead and millions frighten out of their mines. The plan was to interrupt the certification of the election by the US Congress.

“I will be with you”, Donald Trump said with his lips. As soon as he finished talking, his feet took him to a bullet proof armored car that went in the opposite direction, back to the security of the White House, in the opposite direction.

Some say that politicians lie. Some say, that is what they are made of. But I that the way it should be?

Former Majority Leader Mitch McConnell stated on January 19, 2021 the day before the inauguration that this mob was provoked because they “had been feed lies by President Donald Trump and other powerful people”.

Mitch McConnell for years had been a staunch ally of Trump. But when the lies led to near anarchy, McConnell decided that he, in all honesty, could not continue the lie.

I have seen people lie. I have seen people lie from the local tavern to the pulpit. Lies can be damning. I have seen people lie for political reasons often in false and misleading advertising. I have seen people spread vicious rumors about others to damage their perceived character. Impressionable people, often believe the lie(s), validating them within the context of what they think that they know about a person.

John Wooden once said, “The true test of a man's character is what he does when no one is watching.”

I say that the true test of a man's character is what he does to another person whom he feels can do him no harm.

To tell a lie on someone is trying to damage that person. It speaks more to your character than theirs. To tell a lie about something as critical as an election outcome speaks more (in Trump's case) about his integrity, intent, and moral fiber than anything else.

The great American poet Maya Angelou once said, “When someone show you who they are, believe them the first time.”

It is our sentient duty to distinguish between a person of good moral character and one that does not. If we are wise, we will adhere to persons of good moral fiber. It is our ethical duty to follow truth, wherever that leads.

Spreading lies, by repeating lies, for the cause of deception and harm is a greater sin in the cesspool of sins. In fact, if we really think about it, lies led to the original sin. Think to the biblical account of Adam and Eve and the Garden of Eden. The fall of mankind had it's origins in a deception. That is just how damning a lie can be.

The appeal is then tierce yet singular. Let's stop lying on, to, and about each other.

“The true test of a man's character is what he does when no one is watching.”

- John Wooden

Meet Jeanette Epps Astronaut

Jeanette Jo Epps, 50, is an American aerospace engineer and NASA astronaut. Epps received both her M. S. and Ph.D degrees in aerospace engineering from the University of Maryland, where she was part of the rotor-craft research group and was a NASA GSRP Fellow. She was chosen for the 20th class of NASA astronauts in 2009, graduating in 2011. Epps currently serves as a member of the ISS Operations Branch and has completed analog astronaut missions, including NEEMO 18 and CAVES 19. She is the second woman and first African-American woman to have participated in CAVES.

Epps completed the ESA CAVES training program simulating the demands of exploring unknown terrains, such as to be expected on the Moon and Mars. Epps is the second woman to participate in CAVES, following fellow NASA astronaut, Jessica Meir.

Epps overall training has included learning extensive Russian, apacewalk, robotics, and geology. She has also completed jet training.

Tia McWilliams First Black Woman Sheriff in Rural Georgia Community

Tia McWilliams didn't see many women in law enforcement roles growing in her rural Georgia community. Despite the odds, that didn't stop her from pursuing the path. This week, she made history in her town alongside a huge career milestone.

McWilliams became the first Black woman to become a sheriff in Taliaferro county, serving as chief deputy. With over 20 years working with the sheriff's office, she says she didn't choose to work in the field, but rather the profession came to her when she received a work referral from a friend for a position while she was unemployed.

"I immediately went into a 21 day fast, and I cleaned out all distractions and anything that would allow me to be distracted from doing my absolute best," she said in an interview with WBJF Augusta News. "When I found myself to be unemployed and looking for a job, it was by a friend who I had helped that I was able to be referred to this position."

McWilliams started her new role at the beginning of the month after former sheriff Marc Richards retired on December 31, 2020. She also mentioned that some of her goals for the role were to bring new developments to enhance overall performance, including expanding the town's 9-1-1 operations center and initiatives to help employees build necessary skills to excel in their roles serving the community.

Actress

Grace Byers

Visits Zion Elementary Virtually

By Elroy Reed

Actress Grace Byers was featured in a live Zion call, January 14, 2021, with 2nd grade students at Zion Elementary School to discuss her children's book titled "I Am Enough", a book designed to empower children to love and accept themselves. About 12 students in the second grade participated in the call and had the opportunity to ask Ms. Byers questions.

Questions ranged from "What Inspired you to write such an outstanding book?" to "Why is that ring on your finger?". To the latter, Byers explained that she wears a ring because it is a wedding ring and that she is married.

The book, "I am Enough" is one in a series of books that students in Zion recently read and interacted with the authors on Zoom calls. There was a zoom call experience for every grade level from first to eighth with a unique book and author. The reading program was inspired and facilitated by Dr. Tara Thomas, gifted and talented coordinator for Zion Elementary School District #6.

More about Grace...

Grace Byers is married to Trai Byers a gentleman that she met on the set of Empire where she was costarring in 2015. Grace was born Grace Gealey in Butler, Pennsylvania in 1984 but raised in the Cayman Islands. One of her parents is deaf, as a result she knows sign language. After moving to the United States, she received her bachelor's degree in Theater Arts at the University of South Florida in Tampa. Gealey later attended the University of California, Irvine, where she received a Master's of Fine Arts in acting.

Grace Byers

Grace has performed in several off-Broadway shows such as Rent, and some Chicago productions of The Misanthrope and Tartuffe. She was cast as Anika Calhoun in the Fox prime time drama, Empire opposite Terrence Howard and Taraji P. Henson. She can also be seen on Chicago PD this season.

In 2018, Gealey published a children's book titled I Am Enough, based on her experiences being bullied as a child for having deaf parents. She wrote it to empower children to love and accept themselves.

Donna Linder Receives Humanitarian Award

Donna Linder

Donna Linder received the Northwestern Medicine Lake Forest Hospital Humanitarian Award presented on January 18, 2021. The award was in recognition of the Martin Luther King Jr. Holiday celebration.

"Donna is a dedicated Northwestern Medicine employee and a community servant," says Nicole Cartwright, a fellow concierge at Lake Forest Hospital. "I have lived in this community for 62 years and been an eyewitness to the impact her service has had on somewhat-forgotten neighborhoods."

Linder was recognized for her many humanitarian efforts and for the work that she does at the hospital.

According to Northwestern Medicine, the list of Linder's humanitarian efforts is long, and her impact in the community is deep. She has served as:

- A member of the Illinois Beach Sunrise Rotary Club, an international service organization, for 7 years. As a two-term president for the Beach Park, Winthrop Harbor and Zion club, Linder has dedicated considerable time to providing hands-on support for youth programs both locally and internationally. She has also supported food pantries, literacy projects and provided human and financial resources to community-based service organizations supported by the Rotary Club.
- The volunteer coordinator for City of Miracles International, an outside-of-church-walls organization.
- Chair, vice chair and secretary for the City of Zion Fire and Police Commission.
- Chair and recording secretary for the City of Zion Citizens Law Enforcement Advisory Board.
- A member of the Realtors Political Action Committee.
- A member of the State of Illinois Fire and Police Commission Legislative Committee.
- A member of the Mt. Zion Development Corporation.
- A member of the board of directors for the B.J. Gaston Bethesda Village, a housing community for older adults.

Linder's philosophy is "be an everyday person with boots on the ground." Donna has helped countless youth get scholarships in the community. She has helped prepare meals to serve to older adults and adults with disabilities. She quietly helps families in need at critical moments of life, including people who have lost young people in shootings and gang violence.

She's unofficially known as the "People's Mayor" in the community of Zion because of the service and care she provides to families in need.

Linder says that she draws inspiration from Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.'s vision for mankind. One of her favorite MLK quotes is, "Life's most persistent and urgent question is, 'what are you doing for others?'".

President Joseph Biden, Vice President Kamala Harris Sworn In

President Joseph Biden shown with wife, Jill Biden, as he is sworn in as the 46th President of the United States of America.

Joseph Biden and Kamala Harris was sworn in January 20, 2021 as President and Vice President of the United States of America. This is historic for a number of reasons.

Kamala Harris becomes the first woman, first African American, and First Asian American to serve as Vice President. Joseph Biden is the oldest person to be sworn in as President.

In his first actions as president, Biden has signed executive orders to re-join the World Health Organization, re-join the Paris Climate Accord, and he has extended of the eviction and foreclosure moratorium as Americans are challenged with an economic crisis due to the Covid-19 pandemic.

In addition, Biden has set a goal to vaccinate 100 million people in 100 days. He has also issued a 100 Days Masking Challenge. This requires that all individuals who enter federal building or who travel in buses, trains and airplanes to wear a mask covering the face and mouth.

Here are more of Biden's initiatives for his first 100 days in office.

1) Assembled a presidential Covid-19 team of advisers:

The task force will be led by Dr. David Kessler, a former Food and Drug Administration commissioner; former Surgeon General Vivek Murthy; and Dr. Marcella Nunez-Smith, an associate professor of medicine and epidemiology at Yale School of Medicine.

"The advisory board will help shape my approach to managing the surge in reported infections; ensuring vaccines are safe, effective, and distributed efficiently, equitably, and free; and protecting at-risk populations," Biden said in a statement.

Vice President Kamala Harris shown with Husband, Douglas Craig Emhoff, as she is sworn in as the 46th Vice-President of the United States of America.

2) Reverse the Trump corporate tax cut from 21% back to pre-Trump numbers that ranged from 28 to 36%. This tax correction to wealthy will not impact anyone making $400,000 or less. If you are making $400,000 or less you will not pay any more taxes.

3) Biden will push for the passage of laws to strengthen the Voting Rights Act of 1965.

4) Biden will revisit the immigration laws and strengthen the Deferred Action of Childhood Arrivals (also known as DACA) to provide a pathway to citizenship for people who come to America.

5) Biden will end the Trump executive order banning travelers from Muslim-majority nations from traveling or immigrating to the United States.

6) Biden will end the construction of the U.S.-Mexico Wall.

7) Biden said that he would institute a national police oversight commission and invest $300 million into community policing measures.

8) Biden has discussed a plan to organize an international summit where democratic leaders will discuss ways to push back against corruption and authoritarian practices as well as expand human rights.

9) Biden plans to make major investments in the U.S. economy to boost domestic growth and create 5 million jobs through a Made in America Plan.

10) Biden will strengthen the Affordable Care Act.

11) The Biden Administration is considering eliminating tuition at public colleges and university for families making up to $125,000 per year and making HBCU's tuition free.

Actress Cicely Tyson Has Died

Emmy- and Tony-winning actress Cicely Tyson, who distinguished herself in theater, film and television, died on Thursday afternoon. She was 96.

"I have managed Miss Tyson's career for over 40 years, and each year was a privilege and blessing," her manager, Larry Thompson, said in a statement. "Cicely thought of her new memoir as a Christmas tree decorated with all the ornaments of her personal and professional life. Today she placed the last ornament, a Star, on top of the tree."

Tyson broke into movies with the 1959 Harry Belafonte film "Odds Against Tomorrow," followed by "The Comedians," "The Last Angry Man," "A Man Called Adam" and "The Heart Is a Lonely Hunter." Refusing to participate in the blaxploitation movies that became popular in the late '60s, she waited until 1972 to return to the screen in the drama "Sounder," which captured several Oscar nominations including one for Tyson as best actress.

Variety reviewer A.D. Murphy enthused that the film was "outstanding" and added, "The performances of Paul Winfield and Cicely Tyson, as the devoted though impoverished parents, are milestones in their own careers."

Despite her achievements onstage and in films, however, much of the actress's best work was done for television. In addition to "Miss Jane Pittman," she did outstanding work in "Roots," "The Wilma Rudolph Story," "King: The Martin Luther King Story," "When No One Would Listen," "A Woman Called Moses," "The Marva Collins Story," "The Women of Brewster Place," "The Oldest Living Confederate Widow Tells All" and the TV adaptation of "Trip to Bountiful."

Tyson continued

Throughout her career Tyson refused to play drug addicts, prostitutes or maids, roles she thought demeaning to Black women. But when a good part came along she grabbed hold of it with tenacity.

Onstage she was in the original 1961 Off Broadway production of Jean Genet's "The Blacks" and, decades later, she won a Tony for her starring role in a revival of "The Trip to Bountiful."

In television she nabbed the first recurring role for an Black woman in a drama series, "East Side/West Side," and the actress later won two much-deserved Emmys for 1974's memorable

"The Autobiography of Miss Jane Pittman." She was nominated a total of 16 times in her career, also winning for supporting actress, in 1994 for an adaptation of "Oldest Living Confederate Widow Tells All"; she was nominated five times for guest actress in a drama for "How to Get Away With Murder."

The actress became a household name thanks to her starring role in "Miss Jane Pittman." The TV movie, in which a 110-year-old woman recalls her life, required her to portray the heroine over a nine-decade period. Writing about Tyson's performance, Pauline Kael compared her "to the highest, because that's the comparison she invites and has earned."

She remained an occasional presence on the big screen as well in films including "A Hero Ain't Nothin' But a Sandwich," Richard Pryor comedy "Bustin' Loose," "Fried Green Tomatoes" and "Hoodlum."

In her 70s, Tyson worked more in film than at any other time in her career, thanks in part to Tyler Perry: She appeared in his films "Diary of a Mad Black Woman" (2005), "Madea's Family Reunion" (2006) and "Why Did I Get Married Too?" and "Alex Cross," (2012)

And capping an already-impressive career, Tyson won the Tony for best actress for her role as Carrie Watts in the 2013 revival of "A Trip to Bountiful," then repeated the performance in a 2014 Lifetime TV adaptation.

Born in East Harlem to West Indian immigrant parents, Tyson rose from humble beginnings. After graduating from high school she worked as a secretary for the American Red Cross before becoming a model; at the top of her game she appeared in Vogue and Harper's Bazaar. She studied at the Actors Studio and with Lloyd Richards and Vinnette Carroll, who featured Tyson as Barbara Allen in a 1959 Off Broadway revival of the musical "The Dark of the Moon."

Tyson was also one of the founding members of the Dance Theater of Harlem in 1969.

Tyson was active in charity and arts organizations including Urban Gateways, the Human Family Institute and the American Film Institute. She received awards from the National Council of Negro Women and the NAACP as well as the Capitol Press Award.

The actress was one of 25 Black women honored for their contributions to art, entertainment and civil rights as part of Oprah Winfrey's 2005 Legends Ball.

Tyson was married to jazz great Miles Davis from 1981 to 1988.

Survivors include her niece, British actress Cathy Tyson.

My Friends Are Little Lamps to Me

My friends are little lamps to me,
Their radiance warms and cheers my ways.
And all my pathway dark and lone
Is brightened by their rays.

I try to keep them bright by faith,
And never let them dim with doubt,
For every time I lose a friend
A little lamp goes out.
